Completes training

Sergeant Zebulon V. Saunders, Jr., of the Appomattox Office of the Department of State Police has completed the nine-month Traffic Police Administration Training Program conducted by The Traffic Institute, Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois.

The management development program began September 10, 1980, and was completed on June 13, 1981, by 78 police officers that represented 65 different law enforcement agencies. There were 19 students from 14 State Police agencies, 44 from 38 municipal agencies, three from county agencies, one from the Bristol Township Police Department, Pennsylvania, one from the Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles, one student from Bahrain, one from New Zeland, one from Qatar, one from the Royal Hong Kong Police, two from Saipan, one from Capetown, South Africa, and two from Taiwan.

The Traffic Institute, founded in 1936, under the auspices of Northwestern University, is an international, nonprofit organization which serves the public law enforcement, criminal justice and highway transportation systems. Local, county, state and federal government agencies, as well as agencies representing foreign governments, are served through programs of training, continuing education, research and development, publications, and direct assistance.

Name omitted

In the recently published honor rolls for Appomattox County High School, the name of Debbie Lawson was inadvertantly omitted from the honorable mention list for both the semester and the year.

Troopers execute 'C.A.R.E.'

Virginia troopers participating in Operation C.A.R.E. over the July 4 holiday weekend assisted 3,616 distressed or stranded motorists, investigated 115 crashes, and issued 5,476 summonses according to statistics released today by the Department of State Police.

C.A.R.E. -- an acronym for Combined Accident Reduction Effort -- is a national program designed to reduce crashes over the holiday weekends of Memorial Day, July 4 and Labor Day by increasing the number of troopers patrolling certain sections of the State's busiest roads.

"Actually, the Department maintains a number of regular patrols during these holiday weekends in addition to the special C.A.R.E. program," said Colonel D. M. Slane, Department Superintendent, "but we believe that our emphasis in areas where our records indicate high accident frequency and high traffic volume is appropriate. The increased visibility of troopers does deter many would-be violators while, at the same time, giving us a sufficient number of troopers to arrest or issue summonses to those motorists who insist on violating safe driving laws."

Preliminary fatality figues for the July 4 weekend -- which began at 6 p.m. Thursday, July 3 and continued through midnight Sunday, July 5 -- show that 10 persons lost their lives during this period compared to 15 a year ago.

Of the 5,476 summonses issued by troopers participating in C.A.R.E., 3,942 were for speeding, 273 for reckless driving, 76 for drunk driving and 1,185 for other hazardous violations.
